Hello there! I'm Reneiloe, a final-year Computer Science student at the University of Pretoria. I'm passionate about full-stack development and love bringing ideas to life through clean, efficient code.

My mathematical background allows me to approach complex algorithms and problem-solving with confidence and precision. I thrive in collaborative environments, where I can both learn from others and contribute my own insights. I'm adaptable, quick to learn new technologies, and always on the lookout for innovative solutions. I'm driven by curiosity and a commitment to continuous growth, and I'm eager to bring my skills, creativity, and enthusiasm to dynamic tech teams where I can make a meaningful impact.
